Considerable cloudiness, windy and warmer is the forecast for today. Occasional showers are expected throughout the day, with the high temperature reading near 60 and the overnight low near 45. Winds today are from the south southeast at 20 to 30 mph. Yesterday's 7 a.m. report, high 51 degrees, low 26 degrees, there was no precipitation recorded. The river level was 3.8 feet and falling.

Pool level 1308.53 feet. Upstream temperature 38 degrees. Downstream temperature 38 degrees. Reading at the Warren gauge 3.82 feet.

THE NATION

The State Department cannot enforce its restrictions on travel to off-limits countries by refusing to issue passports to persons who might violate them. This was the ruling of a United States Court of Appeals in Washington hearing an appeal brought by Staughton Lynd, the former Yale history professor who traveled to Hanoi.

Ambassador Arthur Goldberg of the United States said that his greatest disappointment and frustration in his two and a half years at the United Nations was his "inability to have been more successful in trying to find the way to have the UN play a constructive role in making peace in Vietnam."

THE WORLD

As South Vietnam's President Nguyen Van Thieu left for Australia and a meeting with President Johnson, there were growing indications of a major policy split between his six-week-old government and the Johnson administration. Before leaving for a memorial service for Harold Holt, Thieu rejected the appeal that Johnson made for "informal talks" between the Saigon government and the National Liberation Front. "We never recognize the National Liberation Front as a government or anything else," the South Vietnamese president declared.

President Johnson arrived in Australia after a 26-hour journey and began a series of bilateral discussions with heads of states that have made troop commitments to the Vietnamese war. What the President will do after Friday's memorial service for Premier Harold Holt remained a White House secret, but there was speculation that he might dash over to Vietnam, to make a personal Christmas greeting to the American fighting men there.

Tension and anxiety were apparent in Communist Europe as four representatives of Soviet Premier Aleksei Kosygin began a fact-finding tour of West Germany. The cause for apprehension is rooted in the understanding that the Soviet Premier favors a softer line on West Germany than do his Politburo colleagues.

From his exile in Italy, King Constantine of Greece asked the ruling military junta for a "firm and complete timetable" for the restoration of parliamentary democracy as a condition for his return to Athens. Meanwhile, the two colonels and brigadier who have been governing Greece since their coup resigned from the Greek Army. In Athens, their resignation was interpreted as a sign of complete victory over King Constantine and an attempt by the three to consolidate and make permanent their control over Greece.

Viet Cong Strike Close To Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — The Viet Cong struck close to Saigon on Wednesday night in one of a series of attacks apparently designed as a show of strength before the approaching Christmas cease-fire.

Striking 15 miles southeast of Saigon, the Viet Cong tried to overrun a base camp of Thailand's Queen's Cobra Regiment. U.S. officers said the Thai troops, in their first big battle since arriving in Vietnam last September, beat off the attackers in a four-hour battle that raged into Thursday. More than 50 enemy bodies were strewn across the battlefield, officers said, and a number of weapons were captured.

Thai casualties were not immediately known. Field reports said the Viet Cong hit the camp with mortars, machine-gunfire and bazooka-type rockets. The Thai base camp is located only six miles south of Berkat, headquarters of the U.S. 9th Infantry Division.

The U.S. command also reported at least five other Viet Cong attacks up and down the countryside on American base camps, Special Forces camps and air bases from deep in the Mekong Delta to the northernmost 1st Military Corps. The attacks left five Americans dead and 53 wounded. There was only one known Viet Cong reported killed.

The Viet Cong have proposed three-day cease-fires for Christmas and New Year and a full week, Jan. 27-Feb. 3.

SPEAKS IN HEAVY RAIN

President Lyndon B. Johnson, enroute to Australia for memorial services for Prime Minister Harold Holt, speaks in a heavy rain to about 3,000 persons at Honolulu International Airport as his plane was refueled for the long trip. There was still speculation Wednesday night that he might make a personal stop in Vietnam before returning home.

Court Rules State Dept. Cannot Restrict Travel

(c) N.Y. Times News Service WASHINGTON — The United States Court of Appeals here ruled Wednesday that the State Department cannot enforce its restrictions on travel to certain countries by refusing to issue passports to Americans wishing to go to them.

The decision, which came in an appeal brought by former Yale history professor Staughton Lynd, appeared to strip away the last sanction available to the State Department to enforce its travel restrictions.

Last January the Supreme Court ruled that the government cannot punish persons for going to areas designated "off-limits" by the State Department, because Congress has never enacted a statute specifically making unauthorized travel a crime.

Lawyers for the government and for Lynd agreed Wednesday that the Court of Appeals' decision eliminates the government's last effective means to keep Americans from going to the five countries that are currently on the State Department's off-limits list—North Vietnam, North Korea, Communist China, Cuba and Syria.

As such, Wednesday's decision is expected to spur the Johnson administration's efforts to secure congressional enactment of a bill that it recommended to Congress last week. The bill would make it a crime, punishable by up to a year in prison and a $1,000 fine for a US citizen to go to a country which has been declared off-limits by the Secretary of State.

The Court of Appeals held that present federal statutes do not give the State Department the right to control a person's travel, but only to saw where the individual can take his passport.

Tension in Communist Europe Toward Bonn On Rise Again

(c) N.Y. Times News Service BONN — Tension in Communist Europe over attitudes toward the Bonn government was on the rise Wednesday, according to East European sources, as four emissaries of Soviet Premier Aleksei N. Kosygin began a fact-finding tour of West Germany.

It was understood here that the Soviet premier is inclined toward a somewhat gentler policy toward West Germany than some of his colleagues in the Politburo, notably Leonid L. Brezhnev, Secretary General of the Soviet Communist Party. Kosygin is believed to have sent his men out to gather material to support his position. Brezhnev, according to authoritative sources, has taken an extremely hard line toward West Germany, supporting to a large degree the policy of Walter Ulbricht, the East German Communist leader.

However, Brezhnev has not agreed so far to Ulbricht's request for permission to harass the isolated city of West Berlin, which he voiced last week in a visit to Moscow.

The Communist sources said it was possible that Brezhnev might accede to the Ulbricht request later as a means of stymieing a West German drive to normalize relations with a number of East European countries. "It could be that Brezhnev will permit a new Berlin crisis" one source said.

Ulbricht recently hinted at his desires for tougher steps toward West Berlin by declaring that the city "legally belongs to the German Democratic Republic."

This week two top East German officials, Foreign Minister Otto Winzer and the Politburo member, Albert Norden, voiced new threats against West Berlin.

Transplant Patient Is Dead

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Louis Washkansky, the first man to undergo a human heart transplant operation, died Thursday morning, Groote Schuur Hospital announced.

He had lived for 18 days with the heart of a 25-year-old woman who was killed in an automobile accident a few hours before the historic operation.

A bulletin issued by Dr. Jacobus Burger, the medical superintendent of the hospital, said the 53-year-old wholesale grocer died about 6:50 a.m. 11:50 p.m. EST.

No further details were announced immediately.

Constantine Outlines Conditions for Return

(c) N.Y. Times News Service ROME — King Constantine of Greece asked Wednesday night for a "firm and complete timetable" by the ruling military junta for restoration of parliamentary democracy as a condition for his return.

Breaking the public silence he has maintained since he fled here following the collapse of his attempt to overthrow the eight-month-old junta a week ago, the king admitted a small group of journalists to a villa here belonging to his cousin, and read them a carefully phrased 350-word statement. "I have only one condition for my return to Greece as the rightful chief of state—that the government in power announce a firm and complete timetable for the re-establishment of a normal democratic political life," Constantine said.

To most of those present, it appeared that the 27-year-old king sought to keep open his future options—to return or to set up an exile Greek presence—without, at present, either openly conciliating or antagonizing the junta.

A condition of the king's meeting with the press—that he be asked no questions—was announced by the monarch's sister Princess Irene, before his entrance. Therefore, all of the interpretations of the statement were speculative ones.

Among them was the possibility that the general lines of the king's statement might already have been agreed in recent meetings between the king and unofficial emissaries of the military junta in Athens.

Criticism of the autocratic nature of the military regime that seized power last April 21 was implicit in Constantine's announcement. But his most direct attack was his statement that "as the months" (since the April seizure of power) passed, however, it became clear that there was a deviation" from the military junta's announced intentions.

Johnson Plunges Into Bilateral Discussions

CANBERRA, Australia — President Johnson arrived with the dawn today after a 26-hour journey from Washington to honor the memory of Prime Minister Harold Holt, and thereby, to reassert the correctness of American policy in Vietnam.

Johnson arrived with a warm tribute to the Australian leader, who is presumed to have died in a swimming accident last weekend, and especially praised him for not "seeking a way out or a way back from difficult and demanding duty."

Then after a few hours rest the President plunged into a series of bilateral discussions with other dignitaries as they arrived for the memorial service Friday in Melbourne.

In these talks Johnson met again with the chiefs of government of the other countries that have contributed troops to Vietnam—the so-called Manila powers who gathered in a summit conference in the Philippines less than 14 months ago.

Their reunions may well take the place of another war council, which they have been trying to arrange—with some difficulty in scheduling—for late this year or early next. All the contacts here during the memorial period, however, will be informal and individual with no agenda or collective effort.

Besides the leaders of the other nations involved in the war—Australia, New Zealand, South Korea, South Vietnam, Thailand and the Philippines—Johnson will be joined in the mourners' march by the heads of government of Britain, Singapore, Fiji and West Samoa and by lower-ranking ministerial representatives from 10 other countries.

The President's schedule after the memorial service remained a White House secret. The indications were that he would try, if security permits, to extend a personal Christmas greeting to American troops in the war zone.

Major Split Indicated Between Thieu and LBJ

(c) N.Y. Times News Service SAIGON — President Nguyen Van Thieu flew to Australia Wednesday amid indications of a major policy split between his six-week-old government and the Johnson administration. Before leaving Saigon, and again during a refueling stop at Singapore, President Thieu all but openly rejected President Johnson's appeal, made during a television interview in Washington Tuesday, for "informal talks" between the Thieu regime and the National Liberation Front. The front is the Viet Cong's political organization.

Johnson quoted President Thieu as having said he was ready for such talks with "representatives" of the Front. At another point he used the phrase "members of the Front." He said, "we would hope that out of that some understanding could be reached."

But General Thieu, questioned by reporters as he boarded his plane, gave a strikingly different version of his position.

"We would accept any representative of the Front who came back to us as a returnee," he declared. "We will never recognize the Front as a government or even as a legitimate political party."

The word "returnee," as used by the South Vietnamese, means defector.

10-Point Plan Outlined For 'Welfare Crisis'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Denouncing the current welfare program as an "ugly crisis of failure" by Democrats, the Republican party leadership proposed Wednesday a 10-point overhaul of the system.

It would be geared to education, training, incentives for work and job opportunities "to get people into the mainstream of our growing economy and to end the growing dependence on the federal government of multigeneration welfare families."

"The plain fact is that we have lost control of our giant public welfare system," the Republican Coordinating Committee said in a report adopted at its meeting here Dec. 11. GOP National Chairman Ray C. Bliss made it public Wednesday.

The committee pledged the live in dignity and to open wide the doors of participation in our affluent society" and "to give real hope to the poor."

The proposed 10-point "new approach" was drawn up by the committee's task force on job opportunities and welfare headed by Don Paarlberg, professor of agricultural economics at Purdue University. It urges: —"A program for a regular survey of job opportunities, and of skill potential of people on welfare. Identify those who may be educated and trained. Provide the means of training and educating welfare recipients except mothers with children of tender age."

"Revise the welfare laws to shift the basis of eligibility as rapidly as possible to need rather than continuing the present maze of categorical assistance."

Donick and Sasserson Head New Vo-Tech Advisory Group

Andrew Donick was elected chairman and Curt Sasserson co-chairman when the newly formed General Advisory Committee on Vocational-Technical Education held its initial meeting Wednesday in the Warren County School District offices. At the same time the committee, composed of some 25 business and professional people, selected 24 possible vocational courses.

The new chairman is manager of the state employment service office in Warren, while Sasserson is manufacturing manager at Pennsylvania Furnace & Iron Co.

Discussion Wednesday was limited to which courses might be offered in a vocational education program for students of the school district. The committee narrowed down to 24 a list of 42 possible courses. These 24 course possibilities will be listed in questionnaires and sent to area businessmen, high school students and their parents will also be asked which of the courses they would like to see offered. Suggestions for additional courses will be considered.

After all the questionnaires have been filled out, the list of courses will be narrowed down still further, to 10 or 11. These will be put before the Warren Area Vocational-Technical Board (which has the same members as the school district board) for approval.

Samuel Marek, the vo-tech director recently hired by the board, will be in charge of conducting the survey on courses. He said he expects to have the results, as well as other data on vo-tech possibilities, ready to present at the board's meeting in March.

Marek said 10 or 11 is the maximum number of courses that should be planned. He expects enrollment in the vo-tech program to total about 460.

In narrowing down the course possibilities, the committee was asked to consider their obligation to students as primary and their obligation to

$2,000 Stolen From Probst Hardware

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. —James-town police are continuing their investigation into a burglary which took place early yesterday at a downtown hardware store.

Detective Lawrence Nelson said the thief or thieves stole slightly more than $2,000 from the office safe at Probst Hardware Store, on Cherry st.

According to police, the robbers apparently entered the store through a coal chute. They then attempted, unsuccessfully, to force the safe open. The thief or thieves were more successful when they took a drill from the store's stock.

Store officials said, last night, the robbers even took water from the store's refrigerator to cool the bit as they drilled.

The burglary was discovered about 8:30 a.m. yesterday when employees reported for work.

Supervisor Hopes To Succeed Himself

BEMUS POINT, N.Y. —Richard O. Evans, chairman of the Chautauque County Board of Supervisors, announced yesterday he has made arrangements to be nominated for the post on January 5th. The Ellery, N.Y., Republican seeks to succeed himself for the sixth consecutive year.

Evans has been a supervisor since 1951 and was first elected chairman of the board in 1963. The current line-up of the board of supervisors stands at 30 Republicans, 4 Democrats and one Independent Republican.

Romney Wants to Test Tension in Middle East

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Gov. George Romney of Michigan arrived in Israel Wednesday from Moscow and said he wanted to test the "current tension" in the Middle East.

Romney, a candidate for the Republican nomination for president, said his visit was to "listen, look and learn." He said he had discussed the Middle East with Soviet leaders, but would not elaborate. He had a long talk with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin in Moscow.

Romney said one of the major problems in the Middle East was Soviet arms shipments to Arab countries.

The same thought was voiced by Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., who told newsmen in Jerusalem on Wednesday that "massive" Soviet arms shipments to the Arabs had diminished the chances for peace in the Middle East.

Percy, who has been mentioned as a possible Republican candidate for president, also is on a foreign tour. There was no indication the two would meet.

Congressmen All for Economy — If It Doesn't Start at Home

WASHINGTON (AP) — Many congressmen showed this year they were all for economy—provided it didn't start at home.

They voted for cuts in the $140 billion federal budget, while advocating new or bigger spending on projects of home state interest.

This mixed record on economy emerges from a study of the first session of the 90th Congress, which adjourned last Friday night.

For example:

— Reps. Frank T. Bow, R-Ohio, and John W. Byrnes, R-Wis., leading House Republican economy advocates on the key Appropriations and Ways and Means Committees, both urged addition of unbudgeted funds to fight the menace of blackbirds to farm crops.

— Rep. Otto E. Passman, D-La., whose Appropriations subcommittee chopped an unprecedented $1 billion from the foreign aid bill, sought and won approval of an unbudgeted $40,000 seaway at Monroe in his northeast Louisiana district.

— Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., who sought to include Congress in a move to cut federal spending, complained during an appropriations hearing earlier that work on the Niobrara River project in South Dakota and Nebraska wasn't proceeding very fast.

— Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., who led the fight against providing each senator with a $23,400-a-year legislative assistant, voted against moves to cut the $70 billion defense budget and to delete the $295,000 appropriation for the virtually dormant Subversive Activities Control Board.

"Pork barrel" projects, the giant defense establishment which accounts for half of annual federal spending, and such longtime "sacred cows" as veterans benefits, the fight against communism and congressional operations themselves, escaped the economy drive which slashed $5.8 billion from budget estimates and directed the administration to cut spending by $4.3 billion.

Although Congress wound up cutting all of the 17 appropriations bills, with reductions ranging from $68.1 million for agriculture to $1.6 billion for defense, it sometimes added in unbudgeted projects.

Thus, the Interior Department appropriation was reduced from $1,458,218,000 to $1,382,848,350—a cut of $75,369,650. But this included an extra $450,000 for blackbird research and control over the $800,000 recommended in the President's budget.

When the bill appropriating funds for the departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare came back from a Senate-House conference, its total was $13,276,017,000—under the request of $13,424,146,000.

But it contained 12 items, mainly for medical research, which totaled $20,861,000 above budget estimates. The House on Oct. 4 rejected the bill 226 to 173, and it later was passed without those items.

When the Transportation Department appropriation came back from conference just two weeks later, it contained $26 million above the budget for aviation safety even though the total bill was $136,713,000 below the budget. A move to reject the measure to reduce all items to budget levels lost 268 to 124.

The public works bill sent to Congress by President Johnson recommended nine new construction starts costing some $139,756,000.

The Senate Appropriations Committee, however, reinstated the four plus an additional 25 with an eventual cost of $389,631,000 bringing the grand total to 50 projects costing $615,415,000.

It's always been our pleasure to serve you, thanks to your loyalty and good will. We hope that your holiday season will be spent joyously in the company of those you hold dear. Merry Christmas!

U.S. Defense Spending Finally Stops Going Up

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON—United States defense spending has stopped going up.
Figures published Wednesday covering the first five months of the current fiscal year leave little doubt that the two-year period of steeply rising defense outlays, reflecting the war in Vietnam, is over.
The cost of the war itself has probably leveled off as well, although new decisions to increase American forces could bring additional expenditures. There has, however, not been

McCarthy Asks For Equal Time

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON—Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy asked the three major television and radio networks Wednesday night for equal time to answer President Johnson's statements linking McCarthy's bid for the Democratic presidential nomination to Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of New York.

The Minnesota Democrat said Johnson "misunderstands" both him and the nature of dissent within the Democratic party to the war in Vietnam. The President was asked Wednesday night in an interview carried by all three networks what effect he thought "the candidacy of Senator McCarthy and the position of Senator Robert Kennedy will have on the Democratic party."

"I just don't know," Johnson replied. "I don't know what the effect of the Kennedy-McCarthy movement is having in the country."

The President said he was "not privileged to hear all the conversations that may have taken place, I just observe they have had some meetings and some discussions. I do know of the interest of both of them in the presidency and the ambition of both of them. I see that reflected from time to time."

Civil Suits May Continue Against Manufacturers

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The 3rd U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals has ruled civil suits may continue against 15 of the nation's largest manufacturers and a trade association facing federal antitrust charges.

The firms and association had sought to block the civil action until after the outcome of the criminal charges.

The defendants were indicted by a federal grand jury in Pittsburgh in October, 1966, on the charges of violating the Sherman antitrust law.

The Philadelphia Housing Authority and three Philadelphia building firms in December, 1966, filed civil action in Federal court in Philadelphia seeking of treble damages.

The defendants after being turned down by the Philadelphia court asked the U. S. District Court in Pittsburgh to delay the civil suits. That court complied.

The defendants argued that information divulged in the civil action, might be harmful to the cause in the criminal proceedings.

The appeals court ruled Tuesday, however, the civil action could proceed. It provided that if the defendants "can show that a response to a particular demand in the civil suit is likely to injure them unfairly in the criminal actions, they are free to do so."

the slightest hint of any such decisions and President Johnson said last month that Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S. Commander in Vietnam, "anticipates no increase" in the force level of 525,000 men already approved.

The figures issued Wednesday were in the routine monthly treasury statement of budget receipts and expenditures. They showed the following:

—Defense outlays in November, amounted to $6,140,000,000, were the lowest since mid-year.

—Average monthly outlays in the first five months of the fiscal year, converted to an annual basis, were at a rate slightly above the total officially estimated just last month for the fiscal year. This indicates that spending in future months will average slightly lower, if anything.

In the fiscal year 1965, which ended just before the heavy commitment to Vietnam began, defense expenditures averaged about $3,850,000,000 a month.

They rose steadily, month by month, until they crossed the billion a month mark in March of this year. In each month of the current fiscal year, which began last July, expenditures have been above $6 billion a month.

For the fiscal year as a whole, defense expenditures were estimated last January at $72.3 billion. Charles L. Schultze, the director of the Budget, told the House Ways and Means Committee Nov. 29 that this estimate was unchanged, with an increase of $2 billion of Vietnam war costs above the original estimate being offset by a reduction of $2 billion in other defense outlays.

Although officials say that no estimate can be precise, no important increase over the $72.3 billion is expected. Thus, at the least, defense spending will go no higher than the recent monthly average, though individual months sometimes show a bulge.

Purpose or Power?

The student demonstrations that have plagued the country over the past couple of years provide an area for wonderment. Are these demonstrators actually dedicated to the cause or causes they rant about, or are their maneuvers a simple means of attracting attention to themselves, or, which would be worse, are they junior-grade power politicians who have learned that they can manipulate and strike fear into the minds of others through mass harassment?

Are their leaders nothing more than smalltime Hitlers, Mussolinis, or Stalins? The lust for power is a psychological drive that has entrapped far more experienced persons than a college student is likely to be, and has led to far worse consequences than the average college student can contemplate.

Yet we cannot forget that throughout history many highly intelligent men have been ridiculed because their thinking failed to conform with the popular viewpoint or disagreed with the proclamations of leaders who later fell from power because of the inaccuracy of their judgment.

So to consider both sides of the student protest problem presents a dilemma. Are they typical fanatics crazed with an inordinate lust, or are they trying to tell us something we fail to hear? If they are fanatics they should be dealt with accordingly. But if they are trying to tell us something, then for the good of the country we must bring ourselves to listen.

And if these students are as intelligent as they would like us to believe they are, they will cease their terrorist tactics and present their views on the high plane of debate and discussion a worthy cause deserves.

Otherwise, we can know them for exactly what they are.

Demo Coalition Fractured

Part Two

There is, of course, no doubt that the Democratic coalition, first under Mr. Roosevelt and later under Mr. Kennedy, is, if not broken, badly fractured. The political question is whether it will no longer constitute a majority in the 1968 election. It is impossible to make a definite guess about this. There is in the first place the uncertainty of war. While there is little doubt, it seems to me, that the war cannot be won in the sense that South Vietnam becomes an independent, anti-Communist and anti-Chinese state, it might happen that Hanoi will be so battered that it makes a gesture of submission. This may be unlikely, but it is possible. In that case Lyndon Johnson may yet appear in the role of a victor. This might rally a large part of the old Democratic majority. But we must remember that as with Mr. Wilson in 1918 and Winston Churchill in 1945, being victorious is not necessarily and always a free ticket to election.

The other great asset of the Democratic Party today is that as late as 1967 there were, according to the Gallup Poll, 46 Democrats to every 27 Republicans in the country. What the proportion will be in November will surely depend in great measure on whether the Republicans nominate a candidate who attracts or repels Democrats. Moreover, the Johnson leaders must remember that a landslide victory very much like that of Mr. Johnson's in 1964 was won by Herbert Hoover in 1928. Mr. Hoover in 1928 won by 444 electoral votes to 87.

Vanishing GOP Establishment

NEW YORK — Four years we have been hearing about a powerful and private Republican "political establishment" in New York which was supposed to have enough money and influence to control the selection of the Republican presidential nominee. But just when we badly need some kind of outside help from somewhere to get a strong G.O.P. nominee, this much publicized and condemned "eastern establishment" seems to have vanished. In any event, a few inquiries around the skyscraper underground of the party here have failed to turn up any sign of a stop-Nixon movement. The most knowledgeable Republicans in these parts think that Nixon's strength with the conservative state and county chairmen in the south, middle west and west has all but assured him the nomination, unless an organized effort is made to get Rockefeller into the primaries, and it is hard to find any serious move in this direction.

New York is no longer the main power center of the Republican party. Other power centers have arisen in California, Texas, and Ohio, and their money is not on Rockefeller or any other progressive, but in general on conservatives.

Besides, there never was a Republican "eastern establishment" that could control presidential nominations by raising or withholding campaign funds, though there were powerful and progressive Republicans here who were certainly influential in the nominations of Wendell Willkie in 1940, Thomas E. Dewey in 1944 and 1948, and General Eisenhower in 1952 and 1956.

The Taft Republicans raised the cry of an "eastern establishment" in the Willkie campaign and the Goldwater Republicans were still carrying it on in 1964. This was popular west of the Rockies, where the eastern bankers and Wall Streeters were symbols of everything alien and wicked.

But where is the establishment now? The same cast of characters that was supposed to have beaten Taft with Eisenhower in 1952 is still around; Henry Cabot Lodge, John J. McCloy, Gen. Lucius Clay, Douglas Dillon, Robert Lovett, etcetera. They have the same argument against Nixon that they had against Taft, namely that he was a "loser," and Rockefeller is certainly no more reluctant to run this time than Eisenhower was 11 months before the 1952 election.

There is not now, however, anything like the same pressure on Rockefeller as there was in December of 1951 on Eisenhower. At that time, prominent Republicans were flying the Atlantic and pleading with the general to come home and save the country from the isolationists. They were using their influence on powerful Republican governors and prominent Republican campaign contributors to "draft Eisenhower," and finally they succeeded — not in getting him into the primaries, but in persuading him to accept the nomination. He didn't return from Paris until June of 1952, a few weeks before the Republican nominating convention.

The present situation is certainly not the same, but there are similarities. Rockefeller, like Eisenhower in 1952, is running ahead in the popularity polls but running behind Nixon, as Eisenhower ran behind Taft, in the polls of the potential convention delegates.

It took unremitting pressure on Eisenhower, plus a carefully planned organization of the pro-Eisenhower Republican governors to change this situation, and even then, Eisenhower barely won the nomination at Chicago.

Three major differences exist today. Rockefeller does not have Eisenhower's popularity. The influential progressive Republicans here are not mounting a campaign to get him into the race in time, and the Republican governors are not organizing behind him as effectively as they did behind Eisenhower in 1952. One interesting explanation given here for this is that President Johnson has not lost all his influence with

MASON DENISON

Another Round Of Taxes

By Mason Denison, Editor Pennsylvania News Service HARRISBURG — In less than six months Pennsylvania's taxpayers will be staring in the face another round of projected tax increases—even though they haven't started paying on the latest $300 million bundle!

In winding up the old year and looking ahead to 1968, that is the somewhat cheerful outlook at the moment—Christmastide notwithstanding.

To many a lawmaker it is an irking fact of life that they should be in the position of presenting their constituents with a $300 million tax increase package — at Christmas of all times!

(If that's the way they feel, how do they think Pennsylvania's taxpayers feel?) Be all this as it may, the outlook now is for 1968—which in a fiscal sense isn't good at all! Six months hence Pennsylvania begins its new 1968 fiscal year and the simple fact is that the current $300 million "gift" isn't about to cover expectations for next year.

In fact it may take another $300 million whopper to satisfy fiscal demands for 1968. It was only a few short months ago that Shafer Administration strategists and fiscal experts, peering into 1968 quietly projected the need for between $200 million and $300 million for the 1968-69 fiscal year—over and above the $300 million in new taxes then advanced as absolutely needed for the current fiscal year which now, nearly five months later, has become a fiscal fact of life.

Where is another $300 million to come from in the upcoming fiscal year? Nearly everyone on Capitol Hill these days shudders at even silently conjecture on the subject. The sales tax at six percent already is the highest in the land and is scaring the ears off business and industry in the Keystone State.

Indications are that if any new monies of significant note are to be forthcoming during the coming year, another major tax will have to be enacted. This brings into focus a statewide income tax just about the only "major" tax that hasn't been tapped so far.

It recalls Governor Shafer's recommendation of last June for a "standby income tax" which he suggested the Legislature approve, to automatically go into effect when appropriations totaled $1.9 billion. Mr. Shafer unquestionably was thinking on the right track in one respect—namely, making provision early for any upcoming contingency, but that just isn't the way matters of this kind work out, as any experienced political old pro knows (and has been painfully borne out in the six-month interim).

It's bad and sad enough trying to enact new and additional taxes when absolutely needed (as witness the present case)—but to project the levying of an impost ahead of time on a just-in-case basis, while it may sound practical just isn't politically feasible (again, as already painfully borne out).

Two prime factors are worth considering in any projection for another tax increase next year as being toyed with by the Shafer Administration:

(1) Next year the political line-up of the Legislature will be unchanged from this year; (2) Next year is a critical presidential legislative election year when Pennsylvania's legislative gladiators will be up for re-election—and as receptive to enactment of new taxes as a camel loping across the polar ice cap.

The so-called Republican eastern establishment. Many of them are visibly less enthusiastic about him now than they were four years ago, and they are talking rather sadly about his entrapment in the war, but there is a big difference between talking and acting.

Also many of these same influential Republicans in New York have served under Presidents Johnson and Kennedy and are now beyond the years when they get very enthusiastic for a back-stairs fight.

So the question is likely to be left largely to Rockefeller and the younger Republicans who think the country deserves something better than a choice between Johnson and Nixon. Rockefeller still thinks he can wait for a stalemate at Miami Beach to challenge Nixon, but the support for this view is steadily declining here. Even some of his closest friends are saying he must enter the race in the Oregon primary, if not before, and meanwhile let the Republican governors know that he is available.

When I read this, I thought about what would happen if a dissenter really tried to give the President a solution to end the war.

Perhaps this: Ezra Mullins appears at the west gate of the White House carrying a brief case. He is stopped by a uniformed White House guard.

"What do you want, Mac?" "I came to see the President," Mullins says.

"Do you have an appointment?"

"I may be a bigot, Gov. Wallace, but I'm no racist!"

PEARSON & ANDERSON

Do Agree on Travel

WASHINGTON — The two most traveled governors of the South have kicked up a storm over their travels. They haven't equalled the junketing of Adam Clayton Powell, but they have started in that direction. The governors are:

1. Claude Kirk, first Republican governor of Florida, who traveled on a honeymoon to Europe last fall at the taxpayers' expense.

2. The gubernatorial team of George and Lurleen Wallace of Alabama, who are trying to split the Democratic vote for President, and who have been away from Alabama for weeks.

On Nov. 27 Gov. Lurleen Wallace spent the first full day at her desk in the state capitol in Montgomery since her operation last July. She had recently been in California helping her husband get his name on the ballot, where incidentally he's having hard sledding. Alabamians say they'd like to see their governor and—or her husband stay at home for a change.

Gov. Kirk's honeymoon airplane fare to Europe last September was charged to Florida's Development Commission and cost $1,627. The Republican governor had married the beautiful, buxom German-Brazilian Erika Mitterfeld shortly after he knocked Florida's politics into a cocked hat by being the first Republican to get elected governor.

Republicans who elected him immediately began talking of running Kirk for Vice President. To this end, the crack satire Public Relations firm of New York was retained, ostensibly to promote Florida development. But the firm has also concocted all sorts of gimmicks to keep Gov. Kirk's name in the headlines, such as having him descend to the bottom of the ocean eight miles off the Florida coast to plant an American flag, thereby claiming the bottom of the sea for Florida; also having the governor sit on the players' bench in his shirt sleeves at football games. This, however, has backfired. Recently boos have greeted the governor's arrival.

How much of this promotion of Kirk-for-Vice President has been paid for by the state is not definitely known. However it has been established that the state paid $4,000 for photographs of the governor's wedding, made by the David-off Studios of Palm Beach. On top of this came the $1,627 travel tab for the governor's honeymoon, plus the fact that two officials of the Florida Development Commission accompanied the governor, presumably to make honeymoon arrangements for him.

Gov. Kirk has been flying around the state in a fast jet paid for by the Republican State Committee, an organization which has been slow in filing a list of its campaign contributors and its expenditures. Some Florida legislators suggest an investigation of just who is contributing this money.

Partial identity of Kirk's benefactors was revealed the other day in Miami at a meeting

ART BUCHWALD

A Man With a Solution

WASHINGTON — In answering the Administration's critics on the war in Vietnam, the President, the Vice President and the secretary of state have all derided the fact that although there are plenty of dissenters around, none of them seems to have any alternatives of his own to offer.

Just the other day President Johnson said, "I only wish those who be-wail war would bring me just one workable solution to end the war."

When I read this, I thought about what would happen if a dissenter really tried to give the President a solution to end the war.

Perhaps this: Ezra Mullins appears at the west gate of the White House carrying a brief case. He is stopped by a uniformed White House guard.

"What do you want, Mac?" "I came to see the President," Mullins says.

"Do you have an appointment?"

"No, but he said that anyone who had a workable solution to the war in Vietnam should present it to him."

"Just a minute, please." The guard puts in a call on the phone and Mullins is suddenly surrounded by four Secret Service men.

"Okay," says one of the Secret Service men. "Let's go quietly."

"They lead him into an office in the White House annex. First they search him, and then they start questioning him."

"What have you got in the brief case?"

"My plan to end the war in Vietnam," Mullins says happily. "I think it's real smart of the President to ask someone else to come up with a solution to the war, since his people have run out of ideas."

The four Secret Service men stare at him.

"Of course, the plan isn't complete because I'm not privy to the same information available to the Administration, but if I can get the answers to certain questions, I can fill in the holes."

"All right, smart guy," one of the Secret Service men says, "what were you really doing of the Dade County Chapter of the Florida Automobile Dealers Association when Dennis McNamara, president, appealed to auto dealers to contribute to the Wac'enhut Detective Agency, entrusted by the governor with operating a private Florida police force. It ran up a bill of something over $300,000, for which Kirk has been passing the hat among Florida businessmen.

At the auto dealers meeting President McNamara, not realizing the press was present, let drop the key to Kirk's money-raising success. He said, "The governor needs $1,000 from each of us. . . and remember he's been a friend of ours and promised to veto the sales tax."

While the governor of Florida has been lavish in spending money for his own promotion and for photographs of his photogenic bride, he has been niggardly with funds for children and oldsters. The University of Florida, because of Kirk's vetoes, faces a $2 million deficit; Florida teachers are in revolt over the curtailment of education funds; and 200,000 elderly, who would have been eligible for Medicaid, today are thrown on Florida counties for relief because the governor vetoed an appropriation for matching funds which would have brought in three times as much federal money as he vetoed.

Gov. Kirk, who has a lot in common with ex-Gov. George Wallace of Alabama when it comes to traveling, nevertheless announced the other day that he was going to campaign against Wallace in Florida. Whereupon Kirk heard from home.

His mother, Myrtle Kirk, happens to be a clerk in the Alabama House of Representatives. She got on the telephone to deliver a shrill lecture to her son in Tallahassee. The governor's father, Claude Kirk, Sr., has held a succession of Alabama state jobs and is presently in charge of federal-state liaison for Gov. Lurleen Wallace. Both of Kirk's parents were distressed over the waywardness of their Florida son when it came to Alabama politics, and urged him to abandon his intention of barnstorming against the ex-governor of Alabama.

At present, the two governors of Alabama are much too busy to worry much about problems in their home state. They have been busy letting the taxpayers of Alabama support George's political ambitions. A total of 25 Alabama employees have been in California trying to help George get his name on the California ballot. They draw weekly salaries totaling $4,000, and at first alibied that they were working off accumulated annual leave. Gov. Lurleen Wallace, however, finally admitted that none were on vacation or off the payroll.

Nobody got mad at Lurleen when she took time off for a serious operation in Houston. But they haven't been happy over her trips to California since that she has recovered. Furthermore, the real fact is that George, not Lurleen, is the governor of Alabama, and George has been spending all his time out of state pushing his own ambitions to be President.

trying to get by the White House gate?"

"It's exactly a lot of you. The President's been asking for over a year now for his dissenters to come up with a plan of their own. I got one. Listen, if the President is busy, I'll see the Vice President. He's been pleading for a solution, too."

"You're not going to see any Vice President, Mac."

"Okay, I'll see Dean Rusk then, though I'd hate for the Presidency to hear my plan secondhand."

"You're not going to see Dean Rusk, either."

"Well, who can I see?"

"We're going to arrange for you to see a nice doctor out at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, and you can tell your plan to him."

They bundle a kicking Mullins into an ambulance and, as the sirens wail, he is driven away from the White House.

Just then the President walks by and says to one of the Secret Service men, "What was that all about?"

"Some nut has a solution for the Vietnam war."

"What?" the President cries. "Get him back. Don't you know this is an election year?"

WM. BUCKLEY

The End Of Freedom Now

They are speaking now of Dr. Martin Luther King as a has-been, one of the "old-fashioned integrationists" who, coming upon reality, have gone off on wild tangents, concerning Vietnam, civil disobedience, and the rest of it. The liberal community a cc o r d i n g to a recent survey by the editors of The New York Times, is now divided — between the said integrationists on the one hand, and the separatists on the other, who have become convinced that integration will come only after a period during which the Negro community will have amassed power — social, economic, and political — on its own, at which point it can accost the white community from a position closer to that parity whence integration tends naturally to follow.

Then there is a third position, the position of absolute pessimism. It is taken of course by racists, who believe in what they understand as "racial purity," but it is a position also taken by some liberals who are always looking for an excuse to disparage America's idealistic pretensions. The dean of this overstaffed school, Mr. W. H. Perry of the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions in Santa Barbara, puts it very plainly, "Racial integration in the United States," he says, "is impossible." The most we can hope for is "peaceful co-existence between black town and white town."

There are those who, in mid-furor, attempted to introduce the crusaders to reality. When Dr. King was chanting "Freedom Now," the wise men were saying, "Define your terms." Neither Dr. King nor his followers ever really did define their terms, but it wasn't difficult to infer them. "Freedom" meant the evanescence of color, i.e., that situation which would exist if it were not even noticed by the typical American what was the color of his neighbor's skin. Such freedom is not readily available. "Now" meant, if not exactly next Tuesday, a week from next Tuesday — that being the span of the liberals' patience.

Well, the week went by and we all know now what happened. Progress came slowly, indeed so slowly that history may even doubt whether it came any faster during the 60's than it did during the 50's and 40's, back before all those civil rights bills. In certain respects true progress was made, and we have yet to see what will happen from the formal enfranchisement of the Negro community in the South. In certain other respects, there was retrogression. The rise of the black militants fractured the principal asset of racial harmony, namely the good will of the majority of the American people. That good will is now in abeyance, pending the wholesale repudiation of the black militants, the rioters, the civil disobedient, by the Negro community at large.

That is where things stand at year's end in this issue most vexed, the issue which Richard Nixon quite correctly identified a couple of weeks ago as graver by far than the Vietnam War. It may appear a curious time to inject a little optimism into the picture, but the withdrawal of united liberalism's demand that progress be measured only by effective integration, clears the mind sufficiently to permit the assessment of other indices of progress. For instance, Mr. Patrick Moynihan's prophetic insistence five years ago that the Negro community now needs to find its own leaders. For instance, the perception of Gunnar Myrdal, that economic power is the thing — which should mobilize public sentiment against discriminatory attitudes by the labor unions and other employers. The notion that successful education requires integration, from which we are now emancipated, permits us to address ourselves to the problem of how to improve Negro schools, and how to encourage the development of teaching skills which will overcome the undermotivation of many Negro children who come from broken homes, the so-called disorganized poor.

These are concrete concerns, well within the American mode. They can be pursued without simultaneously prosecuting every white person accustomed to spending his time with people of his own color. Mr. Bayard Rustin is correct in warning against using the excuse that integration hasn't worked in order to forget the whole problem, much as Americans forgot the whole problem after the ordeal of Reconstruction. But the problem is not that easily forgotten. Let us cool it, yes; forget it, no.

Con Con Gets Proposal To Abolish Local Debt Authorities

HARRISBURG (AP) — A proposal to abolish local debt authorities was introduced Wednesday for consideration by delegates to Pennsylvania's Constitutional Convention.

Submitted by delegate Harold A. Thomson of Malvern, Chester County, the proposal would prohibit the establishment of local authorities in the future and abolish existing ones within 10 years.

There currently are more than 1,200 local authorities, with a total debt of more than $3 billion, operating in Pennsylvania. They were created to skirt the municipal debt ceiling imposed by the state's 93-year-old Constitution.

Thomson said such authorities are "a growing evil" that should be halted.

A proposal to eliminate municipal debt ceilings and empower the legislature to regulate the taxing and borrowing powers of local government units was introduced by delegate Basil C. Scott of Sharon.

In all, a record 19 proposals were introduced from the floor during Wednesday's session, bringing the total submitted since the convention opened Dec. 1 to 45. However, two were rejected because they went beyond the scope of the convention's limited jurisdiction.

Other proposals introduced Wednesday would:

— Broaden the powers of local government units by authorizing them to exercise "all powers, functions and duties" not prohibited by the Constitution or law.

— Give local government

Boy Escapes

Serious Injury

A six-year-old boy escaped serious injury yesterday when he rode his bicycle into the side of an automobile.

Patrick Masterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Masterson, of 16 Jackson st., was shaken up but uninjured, Warren Borough police said, when he rode his bicycle into the right front fender of an automobile operated by Michael P. Bova, 20, of 212 Russell st.

Bova was driving south on Hertz st. when young Masterson, attempting to ride his bike from the east curb to the west curb, crashed into the Bova vehicle, police said.

The accident occurred about 4 p.m., according to police.

Koppers May Merge

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Koppers Co. said Wednesday it will merge with the Buffalo Slag Co. of Buffalo, N.Y., if the Internal Revenue Service makes a favorable tax ruling on the plan.

The merger would be accomplished through an exchange of stock. Buffalo Slag processes slag from iron and steel firms in the Buffalo area and also produces sand, gravel, crushed stone and other construction materials.

units exclusive authority to fix wages, salaries, hours and working conditions for their employees.

— Empower the governor to draft a legislative apportionment plan if the legislature fails to adopt a suitable plan.

— Fix the salaries of county officers by law and require that all fees be paid into the county or state treasury.

All of the proposals were referred to appropriate committees for study.

The delegates were scheduled to meet again Thursday morning, then adjourn for a holiday recess that will end Jan. 2.

However, four major standing committees will hold public hearings over the holidays.

Find Psychedelic Drug Cache in NY

(c) N.Y. Times News Service NEW YORK — Federal agents Wednesday uncovered a chemical laboratory capable of producing $800,000 worth of psychedelic drugs a week a short distance from city hall.

In the laboratory of the top floor of a four-story loft building at 96 Chambers Street between Broadway and Church Street, were 25 gallons of ether. The police bomb squad was called to remove the volatile explosive.

The agents from the Federal Bureau of Drug Abuse Control arrested the operator, John Mc Clendon, also known as Martin Sinnott and River Jordan, a 32-year-old dropout from the University of Illinois where he majored in chemistry for two years.

Sophomore Freed On $10,000 Bail

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Richard J. Noble, 20, accused of starting a fire that killed three persons at a fraternity Christmas party, was freed on $10,000 bail Wednesday.

Noble, a University of Pennsylvania student from Orefino, Idaho, is charged with murder, arson, involuntary manslaughter and setting fire to personal property in the Dec. 19 fire at the Delta Tau Delta fraternity house.

At Wednesday's hearing before Judge Charles L. Guerin, Detective Albert Baldino said Noble admitted setting fire to a paper snowman on the first floor of the fraternity house.

The detective said Noble was engaged in horseplay with one of the victims, Kent Smith, 20, of Wilmington, Del. Smith and a fraternity brother, Joseph Grochowski, 20, of Franklinville, N.J., and a guest at the party, Suza Hayes Sagendorph, 17, of Wyndmoor, perished in the fire and smoke. Firemen said the flames fed on the numerous Christmas decorations.

Baldino testified that earlier during the party, Noble had told a female guest "wouldn't it be funny to see that snowman go up in flames?" and had also tried to set fire to sheets hung along a wall as part of the decorations.

First Asst. Dist. Atty. Richard A. Sprague had asked that bail be set at $20,000, but Judge Guerin set it at $10,000.

The bail was posted, free of charge to Noble's parents, by Albie Schwartz, a bail bondsman. Schwartz said his son, Barry, is a Delta Tau Delta fraternity member at an Ohio college.

Dragon Wrestlers Host Colonels, Knights at Pine Valley Tonight

Wrestling takes over the local sports spotlight tonight, with two county high schools, Warren and Eisenhower, on the mats. The Dragons host Erie Strong Vincent and the Knight grapplers travel to Pine Valley, N.Y., for a Southern Tier Conference match.

Tomorrow night's slate finds two basketball games on tap. Youngsville entertains Clymer and Eisenhower plays its alumni. Tidoute played its annual alumni contest last night.

At WAHS, Coach Mike Weber has a shot at a "first" in his career as head coach of the Dragon matmen: a sweep over the Erie city schools. In prior seasons, either Strong Vincent or East left Warren with a victory. Two years ago, the Dragons whipped East, but fell to Strong Vincent. Last year, the Blue and White notched a victory over the Colonels, but had lost to the Warriors the week before.

This season, the Dragons hold triumphs over both East and Cathedral Prep and a victory tonight would give Weber his sweep. The Colonels are also one of only three teams to hold an edge in matches won in Weber's three years as head coach. Like Meadville, Strong Vincent has won two of the three meetings with the Dragons and Clearfield holds a 2-0 advantage.

Joe Hathaway is in his first season as Colonel mat coach. Councilman Bob Brabender stepped down from the position after last season, but has been retained as an assistant until Hathaway gets the ball rolling.

The Colonels own a 2-2 record, including a 46-11 romp over Erie Academy and a 29-17 victory over Tech. Losses were to Cathedral Prep, 38-16 and Erie East, 27-17, in a match held last night.

Undefeated John Sansone, a 154-pounder, has won four straight going into tonight's match. He won his first three matches by pins and last night decided East's Fred Darby, 8-2.

Rauch Raps N.Y. Jets For Gripes

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Oakland Coach John Rauch Wednesday assailed "New York people" for continued gripes about the "New York Jets, 38-29 loss to the Raiders in their American Football League game Sunday. At the same time Rauch suggested the Jets had done some pre-game spying.

Rauch, whose Raiders have won the western division title and all but knocked the Jets out of eastern contention, said, "I'm tired of hearing about the petty gripes these New York people have about the officiating."

"Word reaches us that the Jets are still complaining and they're beefing that quarterback Joe Namath was mistreated."

X-rays showed Namath suffered a broken cheekbone. The Raiders were penalized twice for roughing him, but the Jets thought more penalties should have been called.

Rauch told newsmen he also was irked by suspicions of Jet spying.

"The Jets did not react the way they had previously reacted when these situations developed."

"It leads us to believe they either managed to spy on us last week or else obtained information they shouldn't have been able to get."

An injury to 138-pounder Steve Kaiser has forced Weber to juggle his lineup for tonight's match. Kaiser sprained a foot in practice and will be rested for next week's Holiday Tournament.

The changes for the Dragons start at 120, where senior letterman Brad Waxman won back his starting berth in eliminations this week. With Kaiser out, Steve Jones will wrestle at 127, Co-Captain Doug Sorensen moves up to 133 and Jim Mead goes to 138. The rest of the lineup remains the same as in the front two matches.

Three Dragons will be protecting perfect records tonight, Doug Sorensen, Mead and Mike Maines at 145. All are 2-0 and Sorensen has additional incentive as he seeks his 30th straight dual match victory. Dane Sorensen, at 112, is the only other undefeated Dragon, but a tie in the Prep match mars his record.

Eisenhower, now 3-1, hopes to rebound from a loss to Southwestern last Friday. The Knights are still fighting the injury jinx, and a victory over winless Pine Valley tonight would boost their morale for the holiday layover.

The Panthers are 0-1 in Southern Tier Conference competition, losing their opener to Maple Grove. A scheduled match with Southwestern last week was postponed and Tuesday the Panthers were walloped by a strong Jamestown, N.Y., team, 43-11.

Pine Valley had only one individual champion in the tourney at Randolph, N.Y., over the weekend, Pat Richmond at 154. As a team, the Panthers finished in seventh place.

Knight coach Don Johns is unsure of a few spots in his varsity lineup tonight, as he continues to search for a winning combination.

At 95-pounds, either Ralph Spicer or freshman Bruce Fox will get the call. Owen Williams, Gary Gage and Pete Block are set at 103, 112 and 120 respectively, but it could be either Paul Cathcart or Bob McLees at 127.

Gary Dalrymple moves up to 133 tonight. Andy Bosko remains at 138 and Dave Burnett is again the 145-pounder. The 154-pound slot is a toss-up between Bob Hagberg and Gordon Swanson. The upper weights find Harry Critzer at 165, Jim Sherry at 180 and Tim Martin as Eisenhower's heavyweight.

A complete lineup for Pine Valley was not obtainable last night, but the probabilities for the Warren-Strong Vincent match will be as follows:

WARREN SV
Seagust 95 Horton
Williams 103 R. Snell
DaSorensen 112 D. Snell
Waxman 120 Mucciarone
DoSorensen 133 DISarr

Six Raiders Top AFL's 'Star Squad'

NEW YORK (AP)—Quarterback Daryle Lamonica and tight end Billy Cannon, who emerged from obscurity to lead Oakland to the American Football League's Western Division crown, head a contingent of six Raiders named to AFL's All-Star team by an Associated Press panel of 27 sports writers and broadcasters.

Three-man committees from each of the league's nine cities made Lamonica and Cannon strong choices along with Oakland center Jim Otto on the offensive team.

Defensively, the Raiders placed end Ben Davidson, tackle Tom Keating and cornerback Kent McCloughan.

The six selections were one more than the Kansas City Chiefs, disposed Western champions, McCloughan was the only Raider chosen last year.

KC placed running back Mike Garrett and tackle Jim Tyrer on the offensive team and tackle Buck Buchanan, linebacker Bobby Bell and safety Johnny Robinson on the defensive unit. All except Garrett made the first team last year.

The only rookie on the team is Houston's massive linebacker, George Webster, one of four Oilers on the team.

Webster, cornerback Miller Farr and defensive end Pat Holmes were the Oilers chosen on defense. Bob Talamini, a guard, was picked for the offensive team.

Lance Alworth, a nearly unanimous choice at flanker, leads a trio of picks from San Diego. Other Chargers selected on the offensive team were tackle Ron Mix and guard Walt Sweeney. Mix and Alworth both made it last season.

Boston notched two spots, both repeaters from last year. Jim Nance, who gained more than 1,000 yards rushing for the second straight year, and middle linebacker Nick Buoniconti are the Patriot representatives.

New York, battling Houston for the AFL's Eastern crown, pulled down only one spot on the first team. That went to split end George Sauer, a strong contender for the pass receiving title.

Buffalo's only representative is safety George Salmes. Miami and Denver were the only teams to miss placing a player on the first team.

Jack Christiansen Fired As 49er Head Grid Coach

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Coach Jack Christiansen was fired Wednesday in a face to face meeting with President Lou Spadola of the San Francisco 49ers after a 7-7 break-even season in the National Football League.

Spadola said he has held no interviews and has none scheduled for a possible successor, "but I would like to start talks as soon as possible, I hope to have a new head coach to work with our personnel director and general manager in time to plan for the player draft Jan. 30."

Lynn O. Waldorf is personnel chief and Jack White general manager.

Christiansen commented, "That's one of the things that's going to happen to a coach if he doesn't win. Mr. Spadola gave no reason. He said things didn't work out like he hoped, and he wanted a change."

"I'm disappointed, I had hoped to be given a chance to continue after we won our last two games."

He pointed out his record the past three years was 20-19-3 after he took "the 49ers at the very bottom" from fired coach Red Hickey, 0-3 in 1963. Under Christiansen the club was 2-9 the balance of that season and 4-10 in 1964.

Christiansen said he had "no contract."

"I was going on the assumption I would be the coach for some time. The last I heard was two years ago when Mr. Spadola said 'Christiansen will be our coach next season and for years to come'."

Neither would hint at Christiansen's salary.

With no tangible hints, fans speculated that Bill Johnson or Y. A. Little, two of Christiansen's offensive assistants, might be elevated.

There has been newspaper speculation about coach Tommy Prothro of UCLA or Norm Van Brocklin, former coach of the Minnesota Vikings, both quickly denied they had been contacted.

The 49ers started this season with championship hopes and were 5-1 after 6 games, then plummeted. After they reached 5-5, Christiansen fired Steve Spurrier, quarterback trophy winner and All-America from Florida. Under Spurrier, they lost two games.

Then he called on No. 2 QB, George Mira, and they beat Atlanta and Dallas to end the season, 7-7. The 49ers were 7-6-1 in 1965 and broke even 6-6-2 in '66.

Christiansen's overall record in his only head coaching job was 26-38-3. The 49ers never have won a championship.

Christiansen said he "planned to be a coach from high school days and I plan to stay in coaching. I have no business aspirations and no offers."

Asked if he would consider a college post, he replied, "I've never coached in college. I would listen to any offers. I would consider any place I feel I could help and do a good job."

Spadola declined to go beyond the brief announcement of the firing.

"I felt we needed a change in leadership," he replied to questions.

"My mind is completely open" as to a successor, he added.

Why did the 49ers suddenly flop from 5-1 to 5-7 in mid-season?

"Not being a coach, I don't believe I can answer that."

Los Angeles' Charley Taylor, the National Football League's top pass receiver in 1966, is the only individual champion to defend his crown successfully. NFL statistics disclosed today.

Taylor caught 70 passes, two less than last year, beating out teammate Jerry Smith who had 67. Bobby Mitchell was fourth with 60, giving the Redskins the best showing ever by a trio of receivers on the same team.

The man who threw to that trio, Sunny Jurgensen, wound up as the top passer in the league and also set three records—508 attempts, 288 completions and 3,747 yards.

Cleveland's Leroy Kelly won the rushing title, gaining 1,205 yards, and Jim Bakken of St. Louis won the scoring race with 117 points.

Skins' Taylor Only NFL Title Repeater

Rookie Lem Barney of Detroit and Dave Whitsett of New Orleans tied for the pass interception lead with 10 each, but Barney posted more return yards, 232 to 178. The rookie also tied a record by running for three touchdowns with interceptions.

Atlanta's Billy Lothridge was the top punter with a 43.7 average, Ben Davis of Cleveland all punt returners with a 12.7 average and Travis Williams of Green Bay was the best kickoff returner with an average of 41.1 yards.

Oakland 1st On Offense And Defense

NEW YORK (AP)—Oakland's Western Division champion Raiders clinched their title two weeks ago and haven't lost since October. It stands to reason that they are leading in more than the standings.

Statistics released by the American Football League today confirm that suspicion.

The Raiders lead the league in both overall offense and overall defense. You can't get much better than that.

Oakland had gained 4,844 yards rushing and passing, 121 more than the New York Jets, who lead in passing offense with 3,529 yards and are second in overall offense.

Kansas City leads in rushing offense with 2,018 yards gained. Defensively, the Raiders have allowed 3,084 yards and also lead in rushing defense with only 1,037 yards allowed.

Buffalo's pass defense which has permitted just 1,726 yards, leads in defense.

South Captures Gra-Y Triumph

South Street ran its Gra-Y Basketball League record to 2-0 yesterday with a 22-13 victory over a tough Market Street quintet.

Greg Hanks led South in the scoring column with eight points and Billy Cunningham hit for six. Mark Torrance was high for the downtowners with nine points.

Broncos Sign Two Canadian Gridders

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—The Denver Broncos of the American Football League announced Tuesday the signing of two players from the Montreal Beavers of the Continental Football League.

They are Ron Lamb, a 6-foot-2 running back who played college football at South Carolina, and Mike Haffner, a 6-foot-2 flanker who played for UCLA.

Purse Increased

TORONTO (AP)—The purse for the 1968 Canadian open golf tournament, to be played on the St. George's club course near here June 20-23, was increased to $125,000 Wednesday.

Calvin Murphy Hits 42, But Niagara Loses

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — Calvin Murphy threw in 42 points, but it wasn't enough to beat Cornell and the Big Red defeated Niagara 84-78 in basketball Wednesday night.

Murphy, a 5-foot-10 sophomore, scored 12 field goals and 18 of 20 free throws for his 42 points. Gregg Morris of Cornell kept Murphy hurrying his shots. As a result Murphy connected on 12 of 27 field goal tries and only three of 12 in the first half. The Niagara star fouled out in the closing minutes.

Bulldogs Now Third On Small Cage Poll

By The Associated Press

The determined Bulldogs of Southwestern Louisiana, continuing a steady climb, have moved into third place behind San Diego State and Kentucky Wesleyan in The Associated Press' small-college basketball poll.

The team from Lafayette, La., placed ninth in the initial regular season balloting two weeks ago and climbed to fifth last week.

In the latest voting by a national panel of 14 sports writers and broadcasters based on games through last Saturday, the Bulldogs collected three first-place votes and 82 points.

San Diego State held the No. 1 position with five votes for the top position and 108 points while Kentucky Wesleyan remained second with one first-place vote and 87 points. The points were awarded on the usual basis of 10 for a first-place vote, 9 for second, etc.

San Diego State played only once last week, defeating a team of touring college graduates known as Athletics in Action, 102-91. The game does not count in the official NCAA records and the Aztecs' season record thus remains at 4-0.

Kentucky Wesleyan got past two tough games last week, edging Philadelphia Textile 76-75 and Akron 60-56. The Panthers from Owensboro, Ky., have a 4-1 mark.

Southwestern Louisiana downed Northeast Louisiana 89-73 and Lamar Tech 87-74 for a 5-0 slate.

Evansville holds the No. 4 spot followed in order by Trinity, Tex., Indiana State, Long Island University, Winston-Salem, Akron and Cheyney State.

There are no new teams among the first 10, but several others shifted positions.

Evansville slipped one notch after splitting two games with major opponents and beating one small-college foe, it beat Seattle and Texas Wesleyan and lost to Utah State.

Trinity, Tex., also fell one place to fifth. The Tigers from San Antonio beat Texas A&I and Austin Peay, and lost to Oklahoma State, a major.

Indiana State, LIU and Winston-Salem each moved up one place. Akron's setback by Kentucky Wesleyan dropped the Zips from sixth to ninth. Cheyney State remained in 10th place.

After Dick Braucher hit on a jumper, Duklet added two more field goals and the Eagles merely ran out their fourth victory in five starts.

Duklet, a six-foot sophomore, topped all BC scorers with 23 points, including nine field goals in the second half.

Braucher scored 19 points in leading North Carolina State, which suffered its second defeat in five games.

BC and Providence will meet for the tournament championship Thursday night after North Carolina State and LaSalle play in a consolation game.

Balldawking Stu Kerzner broke LaSalle's zone and pressing attack in the opener.

Kerzner led all scorers with 26 points, including 14 as the Friars sputtered to a 32-24 half-time advantage.

LaSalle, from Philadelphia, closed to within two points, 43-41, in the first six minutes of the second half.

But the friars were ahead 53-46 midway through the half when Kerzner got hot, scoring three straight field goals and Providence breezed to its fourth victory in six starts.

LaSalle, 4-2 was led by Stan Wlodarczyk with 13 points. High-scoring Larry Cannon was held to 11.

Black Hawks Rip Bruins For Eighth in Row, 6-3

CHICAGO (AP) — Bobby Hull scored twice and Pit Martin once in the third period to give the Chicago Black Hawks a 6-3 victory over the Boston Bruins Wednesday night.

The triumph, which extended the Chicago unbeaten streak to eight, moved the Hawks into sole possession of first place in the East Division of the NHL.

Fredonia Falls To Red Raiders

FREDONIA, N.Y. — Jamesstown High School trailed after one quarter against Fredonia High here last night, but dominated the last three periods to take a 6-38 victory.

Don Johnson sparked the Red Raiders with 24 points and Don Schmonsky added 11. Cal Astry with 12 and Jim Schultz with 10 were high for Fredonia.

Linescore was as follows: Jamesstown 13 17 15—64 Fredonia 15 4 9 10—38

Rookie Derek Sanderson had scored his second goal of the night at 1:23 of the third period before the Chicago explosion hit.

Martin, an ex-Bruin, put the Hawks out front 4-3, less than a minute after Sanderson's goal by converting on a pass by Chico Maki who had stolen the puck near the Boston blue line.

Bobby Hull struck at 3:27, deflecting his 26th goal of the year into the Boston cage on Pat Stapleton's long shot to the point. Hull concluded the scoring at 12:28 with a 20-footer on which Maki again made the big pass.

The victim of the Chicago attack was Boston second-string goalie Gerry Cheevers, filling in for regular Ed Johnston, who suffered a fractured hand during practice Tuesday.

Sharing scoring honors with Bobby Hull was his younger brother, Dennis, who knocked in his fourth and fifth goals of the year. Chicago's other scorer was Ken Wharram. Tommy Williams was Boston's other scorer.

Pentagon Will Withdraw 35,000 Troops from Germany

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon officials expect to cut the balance of payments deficit by about $75 million a year by withdrawing some 35,000 troops from Germany starting in April. This estimate, which officials called preliminary, was made as the Defense Department announced Wednesday the Army and Air Force units that will be returned to the United States where they will remain committed to NATO. Plans for the move were announced last May 2.

A total of about 31,000 soldiers and 3,400 airmen will be brought back, reducing U.S. armed strength in West Germany to 222,000.

The Pentagon said the units being pulled back to the United States will not be subject to transfer to Vietnam, since they are earmarked for NATO.

However, officials say it is possible that individual soldiers or airmen may be drawn from these units for Vietnam duty. If so, they would be replaced by other servicemen to keep the units up to strength.

This is the first more-than-temporary cut in the U.S. garrison in Europe since the beginning of the cold war nearly two decades ago.

Officials foresaw small chance of any further troop reductions in Europe within the next year, but left open the possibility of drawdowns in the more distant future.

Two brigades of the 24th Infantry Division and supporting units will move to Ft. Riley, Kan.

A third brigade of that division will remain on the line in Germany. The entire division will be reunited in Germany for maneuvers once a year.

The 3rd Armored Cavalry Regiment will be sent to Ft. Lewis, Wash., trimming the number of such tank units in Germany to two. Their function is to operate as a screen along the more vulnerable areas of the Iron Curtain border.

Four fighter squadrons will be brought out of Europe, and they — like the infantry brigades — will be flown to Europe annually for maneuvers.

The three squadrons of the 49th Tactical Fighter Wing will be switched to Holloman Air Force Base, N.M. The 417th Tactical Fighter Squadron will set up shop in Mountain Home Air Force Base, Idaho.

These changes will leave four infantry and tank divisions, two armored cavalry regiments, the Berlin Brigade and five fighter squadrons as the key elements of the U.S. conventional armed strength in Europe.

These conventional forces are equipped with about 7,000 tactical nuclear weapons, but the strategy in event of a Communist probe into Western Europe would be to fight a delaying action with non-nuclear means as long as possible to give both sides a chance to halt the fighting before resorting to atomic weapons.

The Pentagon said the troops and planes to be brought back from Germany "will be maintained in a high degree of readiness, and equipment will be maintained in the Federal Republic of Germany in sufficient quantity and readiness" to insure that the troops and planes can be promptly returned to Germany if needed.

Those Who Nominated LBJ Would Endorse Him Again

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — The policies of the Johnson administration are unpopular with many leading Democrats but those who nominated Lyndon B. Johnson for president in 1964 are endorsing him overwhelmingly for re-election, the Charleston Gazette said Wednesday.

In a copyright story in Thursday morning's edition, the Gazette printed the results of its polling of the more than 2,800 delegates to the 1964 national convention. Each delegate was mailed a questionnaire and more than 1,000, or better than 37 per cent, replied.

Almost nine out of every 10 — or 87.1 per cent — of those who responded said they would support Johnson for re-election. Only 9.1 per cent said they would oppose him and 3.8 per cent indicated they would reserve a decision until the Republicans had chosen their candidate.

On the subject of the possible GOP candidate, those replying said they believed New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller would be the strongest candidate the Republicans could offer.

More than half of the replies — 54.8 per cent — named Rockefeller as the Republican who could offer Johnson the greatest opposition next year.

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon was named by 17.1 per cent, while Sen. Barry Goldwater was named by 11.9 per cent, Michigan Gov. George Romney was named by 5.9 per cent, and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey by 5.8 per cent.

George Romney was named on only 2.3 per cent of the replies. Those participating in the Gazette poll were far from decisive on the Vietnam issue.

Less than half voting support, ed present American policy and among those who disapproved, the hawks and the doves were about evenly divided.

All but two per cent of those returning the questionnaires had an opinion on Vietnam. The biggest number — 45.7 per cent — support the present U.S. position.

Another 25.4 per cent believed the policy is too weak and said the war should be escalated until the North Vietnamese either surrender or are forced into negotiation.

But 22.1 per cent said the United States should go beyond present attempts at negotiation and take the initiative in bringing the war to the negotiating table.

Still another 4.3 per cent said the United States should withdraw from Vietnam unconditionally.

Potential Democratic candidates other than Johnson came out badly in the Gazette poll. Highest among the others was New York Sen. Robert F. Kennedy who was named by 6.8 per cent, Sen. Eugene D. McCarthy of Minnesota, who is campaigning on a platform opposing the administration's Vietnam policy, attracted only 2.8 per cent and nearly all of his support came from the dove faction.

Photog's Arrest Termed Necessary

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The arrest of a news photographer during a stone-throwing, fist-fight fracas last month was necessary, police Superintendent James W. Slusser declared Wednesday.

Slusser said police arrested Pittsburgh Post-Gazette photographer William Levis because he was endangering himself and hindering police.

The melee broke out Nov. 10 near South High Stadium following the city high school football championship game. Levis was on the scene taking pictures.

Slusser said he regrets the arrest, but added that Levis was warned twice by police to step aside. Levis denied receiving warnings.

Levis was charged with loitering and disorderly conduct. The charges were dropped later, and he was released from jail the next morning.

Snowbound Navajos Plead For More Necessities

WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. (AP)—More reports of illness among storm-isolated Indians began trickling in Wednesday as rescue teams reached more remote sections of the Navajo Reservation for the first time in more than a week.

Dr. Charles Brown of the U.S. Public Health Service at Fort Defiance and Miss Tina Begay, a registered nurse, were carried by an Air Force rescue helicopter to a boarding school at Greasewood, 23 miles south of Ganado, where about 10 children—ages 6-12—were reported sick.

Dr. Brown said the area had been isolated several days. He said the enrollment at the school was about 700.

He said about five Navajos were taken to the Fort Defiance Hospital for treatment of exposure and infectious diseases. They were reported in serious, but not critical, condition.

Air Force helicopters were able to fly only two missions out of Window Rock up to noon Wednesday because of severe icing conditions from a storm that passed through Tuesday night.

Maj. Robert F. Forsyth went south of Chinle, where he saw several flashing mirrors in the snow. He said the people were in need of food, but appeared to be sheltered and warm inside their hogans—traditional log and mud dwellings of the Navajos.

Rulon Bergeson, a tribal official said, six C-119 "Flying Boxcars" from March Air Force Base began flying air drops of hay out of Phoenix along the west side of the reservation around Leupp, Gap, Inscription House and Shonoto. These areas have been hard hit by drifting snow and high winds.

Bergeson said he felt "quite certain that some of the older animals are dying" because they are not strong enough to withstand the elements.

He said the severity of the livestock situation has been lessened by temperatures in the 10-15 degree range.

"This has been a saving part with the people and the livestock. If there had been severe temperatures—in the below zero range—on top of lack of feed, these animals wouldn't have survived."

He said 150 tons of hay have been distributed by truck and another 200 tons is expected to arrive in Window Rock.

"Hay is a secondary consideration," Bergeson said, taking care of the people is the primary concern.

Maj. A. H. Wolf, helping direct rescue operations, said pilots were flying through overcast and snow squalls Wednesday.

Snow has been falling on the 25,000-square mile reservation more than a week and has been piled into deep drifts by strong winds. Tribal officials said 60,000 Navajos were affected to varying degrees by the storms.

The federal government had taken no action on a request from tribal officials that the reservation be declared a disaster area so that heavy equipment could be obtained to help clear roads to small settlements and isolated homes.

"Practically all resources available already have been mobilized," said Thomas Sembrera of the Office of Emergency Planning regional headquarters in Denton, Tex. "We could do no more than is already being done."

Head Start Group Forced To Relocate

Head Start, a program for pre-school children, which has been conducted in the Youngsville elementary school, will require new facilities by January 29, 1968. The school has decided to begin a special education class in the room used for head start.

Richard Brown, director, Warren-Forest Counties Economic Opportunities Council, advises that a room with adjacent toilet facilities is all that is required. The Head Start program in Youngsville serves from 14 to 17 students from Chandler's Valley, Youngsville, Garland, Pittsfield and Grand Valley. The new facility may be anywhere in the area being served but a centralized location near Youngsville would be preferable.

Any organization with an available room each school day from 9 a. m. to 1 p. m. may offer the facility for Head Start by calling the EOC director at 723-1712.

unprecedented prominence for Al Loranger of Loranger Manufacturing Corp. Loranger was the focal point in advertisements in the Wall Street Journal yesterday and the New York Times on Dec. 18 and placed by IBM.

The advertisement states that thousands of quality firms like Al Loranger's help produce computers. IBM, alone, relies on some 28,000 companies spread across the United States.

Loranger started business in his basement. Today he employs 210 people and has streamlined and expanded his operation and buildings.

The IBM ad appeared in the Washington Star on Dec. 18 and The Washington Post on Dec. 19. It is scheduled to run in other publications as follows: Saturday Review, Feb. 3; Newsweek, Feb. 12; New Yorker, Feb. 17; U.S. News & World, Feb. 19; Washington Reporter, Feb. 22; Time Magazine, Feb. 23 and in Atlantic and Harper's during March.

The ad features a large photograph of the Warrenman superimposed on a section of the company's interior.

'S' Bridge is Site of Mishap

Three cars were involved in a traffic mishap at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday on the "S" bridge on Route 6, four miles west of Warren.

State police trooper John D. Barnes, who investigated, said a car operated by Gary A. Wright, of 245 Grant st., Franklin, traveling west was crossing the bridge too fast, went out of control, hit the bridge wall, bounced off and struck two eastbound cars driven by Pauline Paden, RD 1, Grand Valley and William Unterreiner, 304 E. Main st., Youngsville.

Total damage was estimated at $1,750.

Winter Arrives

Winter officially arrives at 8:17 a. m. tomorrow, the shortest day of the year since the North Pole will be tilted farthest away from the sun. From now on, fortunately, the tilt will slowly begin to aim the other way.

Alaskan Politics

Democrats met in Fairbanks, Alaska recently. It is reported that one politician told of a woman during his last campaign who said "I wouldn't vote for you if you were St. Peter." The office-seeker thought about that for a while and replied, "Lady, if I were St. Peter, you wouldn't be in my district."

Good Visibility

Give yourself good visibility when driving. A good tip for holiday motorists is "watch your lights." During winter driving, dirt and grime from the highway will splash over the front of your car. Headlights collect this dirt and the light output is seriously reduced. A periodic check for windshield wipers functioning properly. Have a good heater and defroster system.

New Engineers

The District 1-0 State Highway Department in Franklin has added two new engineers to its staff. They are Venton Lugg and John W. Lamberson. Lugg was employed with a firm of consulting engineers during construction of the New Jersey Turnpike. Lamberson was employed by the Indiana Highway Department for three years and the Michigan Highway Department for one.

School Bus Skids,

12 Children Hurt

SALTSBURG, Pa. (AP) — A school bus loaded with pupils skidded into a coal truck on a narrow road Wednesday, ripping a hole in the bus and injuring 12 youngsters.

Two of the children were admitted to Indiana Hospital, but neither was seriously hurt. Ten others were treated for minor injuries then released. All are from Brownstown, Armstrong County.

The bus was carrying 40 pupils to the Elders Ridge Junior-Senior High School when the crash occurred seven miles north of Saltsburg.

Police said bus driver Clyde Panceo, 33, of Vandergrift was rounding a sharp curve and applied his brakes as the coal truck loomed into view. Officers said the left rear of the bus skidded into the truck, and the bus then careened across the road into an embankment.

NO COFFEE

Employees of the borough street department yesterday morning had plenty of doughnuts but no coffee as they cleaned up after a collision between a tractor-trailer and a local bakery van, the latter parked in front of the State Diner while its operator made his first delivery. The impact sent the van into the tree at the right. There were no injuries. (Photo by Mansfield)

$3,625 Loss In Accident

Property damage totaled $3,625 in an early morning traffic accident on Pennsylvania ave. e. Borough police said that at 5:55 a.m., a local bakery van pulled up and parked in front of the State Diner. The operator, Ned Anthony Zaffino, of 11 Plum st., Warren, went into the diner to make his first delivery.

Police said Zaffino heard a noise and discovered that a westbound tractor-trailer driven by Donald B. Losey, Benecett, Pa., had rammed the rear of the bakery van and driven it into a tree.

Both vehicles were towed away.

Local Governments Get Insurance Tax Funds

(TMO Harrisburg Bureau) HARRISBURG — Payments totaling $16,534.92 have been forwarded to six boroughs and 18 townships in Warren County as reimbursements from the Fire Insurance Tax Fund, the State Auditor General's Department said yesterday.

Returned To Prison

KANE — A former Kane area man, Robert Allan Walton, 24, and Elwood Maurice Rupp, 21, of York, were back in Rockview prison Monday night after a brief "walk." Working on a construction detail, the pair scaled a wall and escaped, only to be picked up a few hours later while walking along a rural road.

As a widespread search was underway with all police agencies alerted, a prison guard on his way home and off duty spotted the pair still in prison garb.

They were said to have been returned without resistance by the guard, Ralph Stitt, at a point about seven miles from the prison.

Walton, who formerly resided in Kane and Highland now resides near Franklin. It was reported he had been paroled earlier this year but returned when Kane-based state police picked him up on a motor code violation, a breach of his parole.

PRESENT PROGRAM

Sixth graders at Market Street School presented a Christmas program and play yesterday morning. Following the singing of carols, the students appeared in the play, the script for which they wrote themselves. Under the direction of their teacher, Murray G. Quigley, the young people created their own set and props even to a four poster bed. (Photo by Mansfield)

Ann Landers
Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a man 43 years old. Nine years ago I was committed to a state mental hospital. Time and feeling deserted me. I was able to maintain a continuing interest in only one thing—your column. Some days, reading Ann Landers was the only act I was aware of performing. I cannot say I particularly enjoyed your column or that it uplifted me in any way, or that I learned anything from it. I had no sense of either liking it or disliking it. It didn't make me feel especially comfortable or uncomfortable. I just knew that every day I had to read Ann Landers. For a long time I gave up hope that I would ever be a functional, whole human being again. Then gradually I began to see signs that I was getting better. Today I am well on my way to recovery. Now I know why I read your column every day. It was because you expressed a note of sympathy and understanding for the mentally ill. Possibly this is what kept alive in me that small flicker of hope. I just wanted to say thank you.—JOHN OF SEATTLE

DEAR SEATTLE: Yours is a remarkable letter. I have never received a finer compliment. Thank you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: May I respond to Mrs. Clean—the mother-in-law who feels so sorry for her son. If the boy was raised in an immaculate home, I'm sure it must hurt her to see him living "in all that dirt." I know how you feel, Mrs. Clean, because my own mother-in-law has expressed exactly the same sentiments to everyone who would listen. I admit our home is not as clean as hers, but then whose is? She has made such a fetish of a spotless house that it is pretty nearly a sickness. It is interesting to me, however, that my husband finds his mother's immaculate home as unappetizing as she must find our "pig pen." I know this is true because I have had to drag him over to his mother's clean house every two weeks for the last eight years. So you see, my dear, it takes more than bleaches, detergents, furniture polish and wax to make a home inviting.—BATTERED BUFFER BETWEEN A BOY AND HIS MOTHER

DEAR BUFF: You speak the truth, Girl. Thanks for saying it. Take that and that and that, Mrs. Clean!

DEAR ANN LANDERS: After receiving a formal announcement of the wedding of a close friend's daughter, I sent a rather costly gift. I heard around town that on the honeymoon the bride decided she had made a terrible mistake. Four weeks after the marriage she filed for divorce. Yesterday I received the bill for the gift. The bride has told several people she has no intention of returning the wedding gifts; in fact, she plans to exchange some of the gifts for clothes. Am I wrong in feeling resentful?—HADSVILLE

DEAR HAD: If the wedding had not come off, the bride would surely have been obligated to return the gifts. But once married, whether for four weeks or four minutes, the bride need not return anything.

Is alcoholism a disease? How can the alcoholic be treated? Is there a cure? Read the booklet "Alcoholism—Hope and Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 35 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Youngville Post Has Party

The Youngville Halgren-Wilcox American Legion Post No. 658 held a Christmas party for members and guests in the Legion home on Saturday evening. Music for dancing was played by the Youngville "Troubadors." A buffet of ham and turkey was provided by the Auxiliary members. A door prize was donated by Allen Lyons who also acted as master of ceremonies. The evening ended with an old-fashioned sing-a-long. The Youngville Post has been preparing for its annual American Legion-Kiwanis Christmas project for helping the needy in the area.

Ordination Takes Place January 6th

Rev. Mr. James DeMarco S.V.D.

The Rev. Mr. James DeMarco, who will be ordained to the Catholic priesthood in the Society of the Divine Word Missionaries on Saturday, January 6, 1968, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James DeMarco of 20 Walnut street. The Sacrament will be conferred by the Most Reverend John F. Whealon, Bishop of Erie, in the Chapel of the Divine Word Seminary, Girard, Penna. at 10 a. m.

The Rev. Mr. DeMarco is a 1954 graduate of St. Joseph Elementary School, and a 1958 graduate of Warren High School. He entered the Society of the Divine Word's seminary at Island Creek, near Duxbury, Mass., and pursued studies there from September 9, 1958 to June 1959. His college courses, prior to his advanced studies for the missionary order were completed in Miramar, Island Creek, by 1960. Further studies were pursued at the Divine Word Seminary in Conesus, N.Y.; in Argentina, South America; and in Techny, Ill.

Because of limited space in the seminary chapel at Girard, his ordination will be attended by members of his family, relatives and a few close friends of the family.

Members of St. Joseph Parish and all who are interested are invited to offer with Father De Marco, a Concelebrated Mass of Thanksgiving on Sunday afternoon, January 7, at 2:30 in St. Joseph Church. They are also invited to attend a buffet-reception following the Mass in St. Joseph School Hall and to receive Father's blessing. The reception will continue until 6 o'clock.

When signing the card, whose name is written first — the husband's or wife's?

It is courteous for the person signing the card to write the other's name first. For example, if you sign the card for you and your husband, it should read: "Tom and Mary" (or "Tom and Mary Green," if more identification is needed).

FINGER ORNAMENTS

Big rings, encrusted with rhinestones and other semi-precious stones, are glimmering all over the country these days. Tandem-style finger ornament (top) is really three rings in one, attached by chains and clasps and extending to the fingernail. The huge gem (bottom) might be called a refined substitute for brass knuckles. As a matter of fact, it has been said by a member of the fair sex that no woman should enter the New York subways without one of these chic weapons. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Merry, Merry Christmas

Christmas is so many wondrous things, so many splendid, shining things to lift the spirit and the hopes of men. Even in these scared times, when conflict in a distant alien land means tragic loss for hundreds upon hundreds of families here at home, yet is Christmas still—somehow—a warmth, a reassuring presence.

Now more than ever the human heart is humble and kind. Christmas is the joy heart deep in the eyes of a sleep-warm child dazzled by the splendor of it all. Christmas is a slow and tender smile in a sleeping home as parents trim the tree and memories of all their Christmases together rush upon them. There is a force drawing families close. Holly wreaths are open eyes at windows. There's magic in the early morn, in the story of Bethlehem told the eve before.

This is Christmas. This is Christmas when the universe, a cathedral without dimension, its black dome sequined with stars, houses a hushed humanity. And the wonder and the glory are again. Now a man is tree tall upon his knees. He reaches confidently beyond his grasp. His spirit climbs beyond the customary landmark of perception. He knows more than he can tell. All this is Christmas. May it be yours.

Merry, Merry Christmas

Britain Refuses to Be Gloomy Because of DeGaulle

(c) N.Y. Times News Service LONDON — A jovial George Brown begged the House of Commons Wednesday "not to treat this as a day of gloom for us" just because France had again blocked British entry into the European Common Market.

"Gloom, if there is any, will be over the Elysee and not over Britain," the foreign secretary said.

He said that President Charles de Gaulle must bear the heavy responsibility for delaying the inevitable course of European economic history, which must lead to formation of a market of 280 million people, including Britain, capable of facing "the technological challenge of the U.S. and the U.S.S.R."

As for Britain, Brown asserted: "We cannot expose ourselves to any further vetoes on the part of President de Gaulle."

He said Britain would maintain her application for membership in the community but would not insist on it so long as de Gaulle remained President of France. Instead, Britain would concentrate on consultations with the five European nations that supported her application, and with the members of the European Free Trade Association and the Irish Republic. Britain would seek to strengthen her economy for the day when the obstacle represented by the French president was removed.

"We are by no means the only country whose hopes of progress toward a genuine European unity have been temporarily disappointed," Brown noted. He was referring to the fact that the Scandinavian countries and Ireland, whose economies are linked closely with Britain, had hoped to follow Britain into the community.

Of relations with France he said: "Whilst we shall not indulge in any peevish or petty reaction to the present situation, it would be idle to pretend that what has happened is not a grave blow to our relationship."

Whitehall officials reject the reasons given by the French for blocking British entry as mere pretexts. They consider that France was excluded by the obstinate will of de Gaulle.

Generally they were relieved to have a definite answer. Some had feared de Gaulle's veto might be obscured by delaying tactics and proposals for further study.

MAKE OWN CHRISTMAS TREE

Members of the special education class at Warren County Day center examine the Christmas tree and decorations they have been working on. These are a few of the 14 children who took part this week in trimming the tree and making gifts for their parents. Mrs. Kenneth Corey is in charge of the class, assisted by Mrs. Florence Stevenson. (Photo by Mansfield)

Britain formally sought entry into the Common Market in letters from Prime Minister Wilson delivered in Brussels on May 11. The applications were made the day after Parliament had voted 488 to 62 for the government to go ahead.

Britain's first approach to the community began in August, 1961, and ended with a French veto on January 29, 1963.

Unemployed May Work in Govt.

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — Carl D. Perkins, chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee said Wednesday he would be glad to sponsor administration legislation to provide jobs in government for unemployed persons.

"Yes, I think it is a proper role of government," the Kentucky Democrat said at a news conference in which he discussed President Johnson's remarks Tuesday night on the possibility that government would have to make itself the employer of last resort.

The kind of jobs he has in mind, he said, were in conservation, health, education and welfare at all levels of government. Perkins thought his committee next year would deal with related proposals of expanding manpower training. He said he thought private employers should do more in that and related fields.

A high federal official said he did not think the President's remarks meant any change in the administration philosophy,

Japanese Leaders Urged To Lose 'Nuclear Allergy'

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
TOYKO — The Japanese are being urged by their leaders to rid themselves of their traditional "nuclear allergy" in considering defense problems.

The new stance, hinting at possible nuclearization of Japan's defenses some time in the future, would have been inconceivable on the part of any Japanese politician a short time ago.

The change has emerged from the current debate in the parliament over what to do about the United States nuclear bases on Okinawa when the semi-tropical island in the east China Sea reverts to Japanese jurisdiction.

Only the extreme leftists are urging that the U.S. forces on Okinawa, numbering around 50,000, go home when the island is handed back to Japan. But many Japanese who want the U.S. bases to stay are against having nuclear warheads remain on the island.

A strong sentiment against having nuclear weapons in Japan has been a legacy of the atomic bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki in 1945. Many Japanese also feel that the presence of such weapons invites nuclear attack by an enemy power in the case of general war.

However, suspicion of Communist Chinese intentions with the nuclear capability being developed in that country has apparently led to a reexamination of attitude.

Takao Fukuda, Secretary-General of the Liberal-Democratic Party and a candidate to succeed Eisaku Sato as Premier, told Japanese newsmen last week that the country "just got away from the nuclear allergy."

The statement was published under big headlines, but caused no demonstrations in the streets. Parliamentary circles took it calmly.

Shiro Kurauchi, the parliamentary vice minister for foreign affairs, argued at a recent meeting of the ruling conservative party that nuclear weapons must cease to be a national dogma.

"If we only insist that Japan will not possess nuclear weapons and will not permit their entry, it will be impossible to debate the future foreign policy and defense of our country," he declared.

The Liberal-Democrats are said to be divided among three different approaches to the nuclear question.

One is a refusal to consider the entry or possession of nuclear weapons in Japan. A larger group feels that nuclear weapons may have to be considered in the future. The third opinion is that the question should be let alone for the present.

Sato, in discussing the Okinawa problem in the parliament, seemed to lean toward the second view. "The matter of nuclear bases (on Okinawa) should be considered when the islands return has been decided," he said.

In the meantime, changes in the international situation as well as progress in scientific technology are apt to occur," making the question immaterial.

The 66-year-old pro-western premier has made it clear that he wants the American nuclear bases on Okinawa left undisturbed in the meantime. "This matter is satisfactory as it is," he said.

Castro Sees Russia As 'More Capitalistic'

NEW YORK (AP) — Fidel Castro, conceding differences with Moscow, sees Russia as becoming "more capitalistic" all the time. And he says the Russians, Chinese and East European Communists fail to practice true Marxism-Leninism as the Cuban party views it.

The bearded 41-year-old prime minister expressed these opinions in an interview with Herbert L. Matthews, 10 years after Matthews as a New York Times correspondent met Castro and his rebels in the Sierra Maestra hills in the early days of their revolution.

Matthews is now retired from the Times, and the interview is being published Thursday by War-Peace Report, a monthly publication which describes itself as having a "liberal editorial bent."

Matthews probed Castro's current views while touring the Cuban countryside with the prime minister.

What were the prospects of improved relations with Washington? Castro dismissed the question with a single word: "Impossible."

What Cuba is practicing today, Castro told Matthews, was "true Marxism-Leninism as we see it, but it is not Communism as it is practiced in Russia, Eastern Europe or China."

He denied that differences between capitalism and Communism were diminishing steadily.

Matthews says he pointed out to Castro that the Soviet Union, Hungary, Bulgaria and other East European countries were seeking commercial accords in Latin America. This provoked comment on one of Castro's principal quarrels with Moscow.

"We consider this to be a lack of Socialist solidarity," Castro said. "They should not be helping governments that are trying to destroy us."

Did this indicate that Russia and East Europe did not agree with Cuban policies in Latin America, especially regarding guerrilla war?

"Yes," Castro answered. "It does indicate just that."

He conceded his need for Russian help.

"We have learned," he said, "that help such as we get from Russia is necessary, but the process of development can succeed only by one's own efforts."

Matthews reports he found Castro "in a state of euphoria" about the outlook for the Cuban economy, his enthusiasm "as fresh and strong" as in Castro's revolutionary days. He was especially enthusiastic about Cuba's cattle, bred from strains brought in from Canada and Britain.

When the conversation turned to the death of Ernesto Che Guevara, once Castro's guerrilla war expert, Castro pictured it as an irreparable loss. He denied reports that he had quarreled with Guevara, and claimed he had kept in touch with the guerrilla leader "within the limits possible" while Guevara was in Bolivia with an insurgent band.

Schweiker Claims Philly Support

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP) — Rep. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., says he has received support of powerful Philadelphia Republican figures in his quest for the GOP nomination for Senate.

Schweiker said Wednesday eight more Republican leaders from the state have endorsed him, including William A. McEhan, Republican state executive committee member from Philadelphia, and William J. Devlin, Philadelphia Republican chairman.

Schweiker got a boost earlier this week when John K. Tabor, state secretary of Internal Affairs, withdrew from consideration as a possible candidate in what he said was the interest of party unity.

Churches Send Peace Message to DeGaulle

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
PARIS — Representatives of the Roman Catholic, Protestant and Orthodox churches Wednesday jointly delivered a message urging world peace to President De Gaulle.

The message was handed to President De Gaulle at his Elysee Palace by Jacques Cardinal Martin, the Archbishop of Rouen, who is in charge of ecumenical relations for the Catholic Bishops of France; Pastor Charles Westphal, president of the Protestant (Calvinist) Federation of France, and Monsignor Meletios, the representative here of the Orthodox Patriarch of Constantinople.

PITTSBURGH — Roger Tory Peterson, artist, author and world-famous ornithologist, has been named the first Distinguished Scholar in Residence at Fallingwater. It was announced here Wednesday by Western Pennsylvania Conservancy.

In making known the appointment, Dr. Charles F. Lewis, Conservancy president, said that the Conservancy was greatly pleased to have obtained such an outstanding scientist for the position. He indicated that Dr. Peterson would be in residence at Fallingwater during February and March, 1968.

Fallingwater, country home of the late Edgar J. Kaufmann, and famed architectural masterpiece of Frank Lloyd Wright, was given to the Conservancy in 1963 by Edgar Kaufmann Jr., for use as a cultural and educational center. At that time The Edgar J. Kaufmann Charitable Foundation provided an endowment of $500,000 to support its activities as the Edgar J. and Lilliane S. Kaufmann Conservancy on Bear Run. More than 185,000 persons have been conducted on guided tours of the house since the Conservancy opened it to the public in 1954.

The appointment of Dr. Peterson is an important step in the development of a long-range expansion of the program at Fallingwater. It has been made possible by a grant to the Conservancy by the Bear Run Foundation, established by Edgar Kaufmann Jr.

During his residence at Fallingwater, Dr. Peterson will continue to pursue his normal course of research, writing and painting. In addition, Dr. Peterson will present a series of lectures in the Pittsburgh area to be announced later by the Conservancy.

Dr. Peterson has been called the world's best known ornithologist. His basic contribution has been to make a science of field recognition and his Field Guide to The Birds is the basic handbook for millions of bird enthusiasts. His dozen books on birds have sold more than four million copies, and he is recognized as the one individual most responsible for the global interest in birds that prevails today.

Peterson, 59, has observed and photographed birds on every continent, including Antarctica, and in all 50 states and most provinces of Canada and Mexico. His more ambitious trips included a 30,000 mile sojourn with British companion James Fisher from Newfoundland to the Bering Sea by way of Mexico — an expedition described in the book, Wild America; two trips to the Galapagos, and an expedition to the high Andes in search of the little-known James' Flamingo. This past fall he spent three months in Kenya, Uganda and Tanzania on a Canadian Broadcasting Corporation assignment to film a TV documentary on the National Parks of East Africa. During January he will be leading a tourist expedition to Antarctica and will come to Fallingwater on February 4, the day of his return.

Now a resident of Old Lyme, Connecticut, Dr. Peterson is currently art director for the National Wildlife Federation in Washington, D. C., and editor of the Field Guide Series for Houghton-Mifflin Co. of Boston. He has served the National Audubon Society in various posts since 1934 and is currently on its board of directors.

Born in Jamestown, N. Y., Peterson studied at the Art Students' League in New York City and then went on to the National Academy of Design. He holds honorary doctor of science degrees from several institutions, including Allegheny College, Franklin and Marshall College, Fairleigh University and Ohio State University. In September of this year he was honored as the first recipient of the Arthur A. Allen Medal for distinguished service to ornithology by the Cornell Laboratory of Ornithology.

Western Pennsylvania Conservancy is a citizens' conservation organization centered in Pittsburgh. It was recognized last year as the National Conservation Organization of the Year by the National Wildlife Federation and The Sears-Roebuck Foundation. In recent years the Conservancy has been responsible for land acquisitions totaling more than 30,000 acres for the protection of unique natural areas, establishment of new state parks and restoration and preservation of historical landmarks.

Take any size easy-opening waxed cardboard carton, and drink up the liquid that's in it. Then, put a regular table candle in the center. Fill with crushed ice and pour hot paraffin wax until full. (The plastic coating will prevent sticking.) When it's cool, cut back the carton and pull out the finished candle. For extra color, decorate with rosettes or holly leaves. Then light the wick for a very attractive candle all will admire.
